Install Dams To Hold River Silt

Steps are being taken to stop silting of the AuSable river near Grayling, the highway department said.

Conservationists complained that the river, renowned for its trout fishing, was being muddied.

They are working to get the river dredged and installed to correct the situation.

To remedy a somewhat similar problem, a weir and settling basin was built where another bridge was constructed to span the east branch of the AuSable.

These counties affected are: Ossego, Crawford, Roscommon, Montmorency and Oscoda.

A new office is under construction now at the Thane-Wonderful Supply Company warehouse.

Hold Up On Tennis Courts

It was the decision of four members of the Community Achievement Committee meeting at the Grayling Womans Club building last Thursday evening to hold up any further work on the pair of tennis courts and shuffleboard courts at the time being.

Only four members attended the meeting. They were: Mrs. Lora Gould, Joseph Stripe, Dr. J. F. Cook and Robert Strong. In view of the seeming lack of interest and due to a tight financial picture at the present, it was the decision to study the matter further and ask the aid of the State Recreation Commission before proceeding.

Further meetings with Commission officers were planned for later this year when several phases of the proposed recreation project can be studied in more detail. The Committee wished the public to understand that the projects were not being abandoned but only being held in abeyance.

Circuit Court Opens Tuesday

The July term of Circuit Court for Crawford County will open next Tuesday, July 12th at 1:30 p. m. with Circuit Judge Dennis J. O'Keefe presiding.

A full calendar faces this term of court. There is but one criminal action which is an appeal from the Justice Court sentence. There are three law-cases with the major one suit being brought against the City of Grayling by Mr. Kratochvil, as administrator of the estate of his late husband, Wencesl Kratochvil. It is alleged he was accidentally killed when he came in contact with a high voltage electric transmission line while at work at the McVal Lumber Company mill.

In 1917 Mr. Raee was transferred to Johannesburg as Secretary and General Manager of the Johannesburg Manufacturing Company, which position he held until the lumber mill ceased operation in 1930.

Returning to Grayling, he had since made this his home, devoting his time to his hobbies, gardening and golfing.

He was a member of the Grayling Lutheran Church Board for approximately 25 years, serving in that capacity as president of the organization. He held an honorary 50-year membership in the Grayling F. & A. M. Lodge 356, was a Member Emeritus of the Elks Lodge, Temple of the Shrine, Saginaw, and a Member Emeritus of the Bay City Constitution, Scottish Rite.

His first wife, the former Laura Nelson whom he married in 1911, succumbed in 1930. He married the former Ingeborg Hanson in 1949. Other survivors include his son, Don E. Hanson of Port Huron, Mrs. Ray E. Snider of Winnetka, Ill., and several nephews and nieces, most of whom are in Denmark.

In the women's free style competition, Lucille Shine of Glendale, Calif., won $1,000 and first place with a total of 689 points. Dr. Fred Simmons, Jr., of Houston, Tex., was second with 672 points for $500.

Runners-up were Karl Heinrichs, Richmond, Mich., and Charles Hacknell, Pennsville, N. J., winning $300 and $200 with point scores of 620 and 617 respectively.

Faye Scovens, Modesto, Calif., and 1959 and 1960 women's champion, tied as men's instinctive division, coasted to an easy first place and $1,000 in her category with a point score of 539. Marie Rondas, Redondo Beach, Calif., was second with 480 points and won $500.

Third and fourth places went to Joan Curran, Afton, Mo., and Betty Fraser, Indianapolis, Ind., with point scores of 438 and 447. They won $300 and $200 respectively.

In the women's free style competition, Lucille Shine of Glendale, Calif., won $1,000 and first place with a score of 687. Second place with a score of 627. Second place and $500 went to Joan Curran, Afton, Mo., with a score of 565.

At the moment a river clean up is very much needed, and plans are being formulated for this purpose.

The only group not represented within the membership of this association is the AuSable River Guides Association. Neither are some of the larger property owners whose residences on the stream create caretaking jobs for many of these guides.

This group stands to benefit most from the efforts of the canoe liveries, sportsmen clubs and the property owners association in this presentation. Most of these guides have been quite indignant about the situation and have, for years, made it known to anyone who would stand still long enough to be told.

Why are they not now stepping forward to lend support to attempt to better the very situations they have for years been griping about?

As the membership now stands, there are only a few of the larger property owners between Buena and Wakely bridge who have declined any interest whatever. Since these people are located on the stream in some of the areas experiencing most of the difficulties, and stand to benefit more than any others, it is imperative that the cooperation of such caretakers and owners be offered.

They are needed to round out the membership of this association from Grayling to Parkebridge, and it is hoped that if these guides and caretakers do not show an interest in a short time, letters of explanation of the purposes of this Association, listing the present members, who are neighbors of these property owners in the southern part of the state, will arouse their interest.

It is understood that most of the caretakers could advise their employers as to the benefits of this association, but realize from this effort if they so desired. It is hoped they will do so as all mailings from this office have been to such caretakers, not to the owners themselves, as I believe should be the case.

With or without these few owners and caretakers, this organization is now organized and a permanent fixture on this stream. We would like the cooperation of everyone.

Thank you,
Bud Stephan, President
Franklin Hills, Secy-Treas.

Michigan National Guard Welcome Plaques Ready

The welcome plaques for the Michigan National Guard are all ready to be picked up at the Crawford County Chamber of Commerce office, secretary-manager Robert Hayes said today.

It is not anticipated that any of the persons now receiving benefits will have to drive to Grayling. The new plaque will be put into effect before the end of July.

Mr. Ashton and a friend, and Jim Sorenson, were on hand to enter the boys' win. They plan to enter the Scottville junior race Saturday.

Members are urged to stop at the office, pick up their plaque and get it on display before the troops arrive in Grayling this Saturday.

"Iron Fist" Division To Arrive Here Saturday

Marks First July Training Since First Post War Camp Of 1947

Plan Intensive Field Maneuvers

About 8,000 officers and men of the 46th Michigan National Guard Division and attached units will arrive at Camp Grayling this Saturday for the annual field training. This will mark the first time since 1947 when the Michigan Guard trained at Camp Grayling in July in their first post war camp.

Authorization was given to the Michigan National Guard to move heavy equipment on state trunk-lines last week, Guard officials announced today.

The Guard said because of the authorization from the state highway department it revised its training schedule to allow for more intensive field maneuvers.

Main body of the 8,000 men of the 46th Division leaves home bases July 9 in the early morning and should have camps set up at the Camp Grayling site by evening.

The two weeks of training, including four days of actual field maneuvers, concludes July 23.

For the past several years, the part-time soldiers have spent only two days in the field during summer training stat.

The time was increased to allow more intensive training.

But an extra afternoon off will level as it was last year, but that the tactical problem would be on a higher level.

It has been indicated by the Department of the Army that we will, in time, advance to full scale war games with the emphasis on training as larger units," Derby said.

It will be the second assignment for some Guardsmen when the troops start for Grayling. Many will help state police and local police officers patrol highways over the side roads.

The highway department's authorization for movement of heavy vehicles covers 20 units, including cranes, wreckers and bridging equipment, which exceed normal load limits.

Members of the Air National Guard's 127th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing also will train July 9-23. They will fly out of the Guard base near Alpena.

GUARD LADIES ACTIVITIES

Activities for the families of the Michigan National Guard officers attending field training have been announced by Mrs. Carson Derby, general supervisor of the informal coffee for the officers' wives. The coffee will be held on July 12th, starting at 10 o'clock.

The annual teen-age party at the officers' club for children of the officers will begin at 1:30 p. m. on Wednesday, July 13th, and the annual picnic for the officers' wives and children will be held at the Hartwick Pines on Thursday, the 14th.

City of Grayling And The Problems Of Your City Government

By Russell Carlson
City Manager

The Budget for 1960-61 was adopted by the City Council on June 17, 1960 at a Special Meeting for that purpose. Many problems have arisen during the past few years that have caused the cost of your City Government to continually increase and your City Council have tried to hold the line on taxes but this year we are to increase your taxes and we trust that you will understand the judgement of the Council in view of the facts I will try to set forth.

Our entire Budget for 1960-61 is estimated at income from all sources $263,643.84 and expenditures for all operations $285,835.75. This included a study several months ago by the New York Central tracks and a 10 inch water line to give fire protection to the Bear Archery Company. Both of these projects are to be completed this year. The seven project estimated cost is $1,700.00 and the water line is estimated at $13,664.12.

The 1960-61 Budget showed an estimated income from all sources of $176,384.58 and an estimated expenditure of $144,983.11. Waste disposal in 1950-51 was $1,065.00 and for 1960-61 estimate is $4,725.00. I have listed only a few of the items that have increased during the past ten years and all other costs have increased in proportion.

The electric power and distribution system has done very well. We have reduced our bonded debt over the past seven years by $143,000.00. We have also reduced our electric rates so that we have been able to give to you the people of the City of Grayling a saving this past year of $75,000.00 as against the rates in effect in 1950-51.

In the year 1950-51 we generated 375,000 kilowatts as against a generation of 750,000 in the year of 7,815,400 kilowatts. The Electric Plant and system contributes a great deal to the welfare of the community in many ways such as lighting for the soft ball field during the summer months and lighting for the football field in the fall. Christmas lighting on our street to all city department and city hall, gives employment full time to nine people whose earnings are above average.

During the past seven years we have connected over two hundred new water and sewer services. We have eliminated approximately one hundred and twenty-five outdoor toilets and at present are aiding the Business Mens Association in their cleanup and paint up campaign to make Grayling a better town to live in.

We welcome you people of our community to come in and see us and discuss our problems as they also are your problems.

Forest fires and war both leave devastation in their wake. Fortunately, only the very old or those who have visited foreign countries can give first-hand knowledge of the destruction left on the land of war by residents of the forested areas of Michigan are annually confronted with the specter of raging fire and the blackened ashes of a once beautiful countryside. Homes, cottages, hunting and fishing camps and even entire villages can be and have been destroyed by the Red Poacher. Fire, in addition to countless acres of green, growing timber, forest plantations, game food patches, cover for our trout streams and shade for our recreational areas.

How do the fires get started? In Michigan all but 2% are started by human carelessness or a lack of knowledge of the destructive potential of one single match or glowing spark or ember released or abandoned in the wrong place at the right time. Others are started by lightning, defective power equipment, the sun's rays through broken glass or by burning soot or cinders from locomotives. All these factors combine in a rainless summer to present a condition that requires the utmost in watchfulness and preparedness for instant action on the part of all the people who live in or travel through the danger areas.

In Michigan, past 1942, present legislatures have recognized the danger and have set up and permitted continual modernization of a "State forest" fire organization whose prime objective is to prevent and extinguish forest fire. In spite of the modern equipment and men taken now employed by the Department of Conservation there is still need for the help and assistance of citizens established in the area or elsewhere.

Perhaps the backbone of the farflung fighting force is and has been the so-called keymen's organization. A keyman is, as the world implies, a key person living in the township, village or other area who can be called on who of his own volition can go immediately to a fire in his area and take control until regular fire officers arrive on the scene.

This chap, who has been publicly unhonored and unsung, quite often has extinguished many potentially destructive fires in his area with the shovel and back jump assigned to him, by himself or with the help of a neighbor or two, before regular personnel and equipment arrived. The general public of Michigan are greatly indebted to this type of citizen who volunteers his time and labor to put out forest fires. He is not on a State payroll and only receives a nominal hourly rate of pay for the time he is actually on the fire. In the light of modern conditions his type deserves an accolade.

We close with this brief reminder that fire is always dangerous and call on all citizens to become more conscious of that danger themselves. Be careful with your campfires, your brush and litter burning, and remember that any fire you start is your responsibility.

Job Security In Top State Posts Is A Question

JOB SECURITY in upper reaches of state government is a question that bothers some of the heads of state departments.

Elected officials, of course, expect to take their chances every time their name goes before voters at the polls. But many of the men holding top administrative jobs are appointed.

The Civil Service Commission has decided to make a study to find out if there is a need to put some—or all—of these appointive jobs under the classified service.

Present regulations call for keeping the top jobs unclassified and not covered by Civil Service.

The philosophy behind this is that men holding these positions would want to do so strictly on the strength of their own ability to perform required duties adequately.

Perhaps more importantly, the Civil Service Commission has assumed that appointing authorities—the Governor, state commissions or boards and the top administrators themselves—would want the power to replace an administrator at will.

The Civil Service provision in the state Constitution reads as follows:

"The state civil service shall consist of all positions in the state service except those filled by popular election, heads of departments, members of boards and commissions, employees of courts of record, of the Legislature, of the higher educational institutions recognized by the state, of the military and naval forces of the state, and not to exceed two other exempt positions for each elected administrative officer, each department, board and commission."

But several men holding these positions, and groups with authority over them, have requested that they be classified in recent years.

If and when the Civil Service Commission decides to classify top positions, a competitive examination would be scheduled for each one.

The incumbents would have to pass the exams and be among the top three contenders in order to be eligible for appointment.

Four positions for which classification requests were received, and which triggered the Commission's decision to study the situation were Mental Health Director, now held by Charles F. Wagg; Deputy Mental Health Director, where the incumbent is Dr. Vernon Stichman; State Attorney General, now held by James D. Ramsey, and Secretary-Manager of the Upper Peninsula State Fair, presently occupied by Ray La Porte.

A GENTLE CHIDING to certain county officials was administered recently by Attorney General Paul L. Adams.

Adams said lawyers and District Attorneys in California had contacted him recently about failure of the Michigan officials to act in some cases involving the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support law.

The statute has to do with payment of alimony and other domestic money matters.

The Michigan Attorney General urged the county officials to take prompt action to process requests filed by citizens of the California courts and courts in other states with which Michigan has reciprocity agreements to avoid creating a "disadvantageous situation."

"Michigan has enjoyed prompt and effective cooperation from all state and local officials in California," Adams said in a letter to prosecutors and county clerks.

REQUIRED MILITARY TRAINING will have a new look at Michigan State University this fall.

A recent controversy—which waxed hot and heavy at times, resulted in a shift to more academic subjects in the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) program.

In both the Army and Air Force programs, male students in the first two years of college will be allowed to substitute special courses in other departments, mainly military history, for the old "hardware" courses.

These refer to subjects which deal with the weapons and other equipment used by the military forces.

The advanced program, which will remain voluntary, was unchanged except for substitution of certain courses in geography.

Drying Well . . .

A short time ago, the Wall Street Journal Observes literally, the mayors of some of our principal cities are with "their hats in their hands" to Washington, to plead for federal money for local projects such as um clearance and municipal transport.

The paper then says: "It is very true that state and municipal tax money is harder and harder to come by; after the federal government has siphoned off its growing share there isn't much left for the other taxing authorities.

"For example, the Tax Foundation recently compiled some statistics on the average income and taxes of U. S. families. A family with income of $1,500 pays a total of $312 in taxes—$229 to the federal government and $183 to state and local governments; a family averaging $8,000 in income pays a total of $2,097 in taxes, of which Uncle Sam takes $1,407, leaving $690 or less than half for state and local taxes. When nearly all families average paying about 25 per cent of their income to taxing authorities, the well comes close to dry-

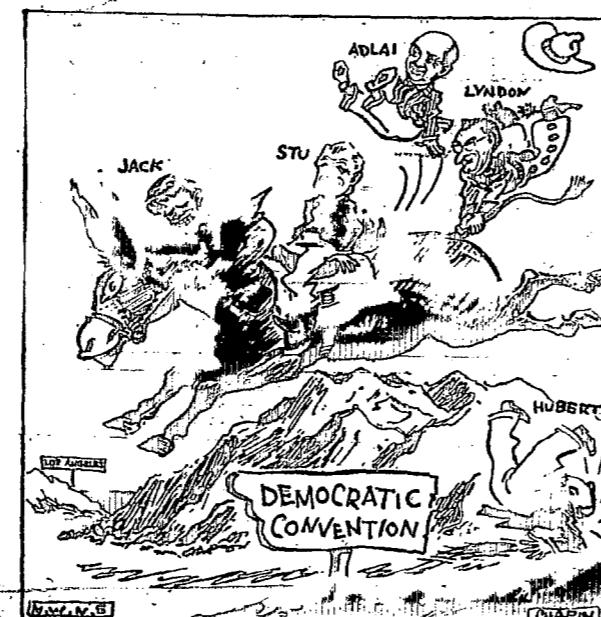

The cure for this situation certainly does not lie in federal taxation and more federal grants-in-aid to local government—indeed, the grants-in-aid concept has been largely responsible for the tax mess we are in. The cure does lie in reducing spending in Washington—and thus leaving greater sources of tax revenue for states, counties and municipalities. The cure, to put it another way, is to let local government take care of local needs. And the money would be there if the federal government stepped out of fields where its presence makes no sense, and where it simply compounds the problems it is supposed to be solving.

When The Cold War Deepens . . .

The collapse of the Summit, the present Communist saber-rattling, and the deepening of the cold war have produced many a grim possibility. One is that American defense spending may be increased materially beyond the current $40 billion-a-year level.

Time will tell as to that. But one thing is certain—in the present state of world affairs, the American government needs to tighten its belt in all areas of spending that are not essential and unavoidable. The taxpayer's money has to go where it is really needed. This means, among other things, that government services, wherever possible, be placed on a self-supporting basis. To take one example, parcel post is now running, as it long has run, on a deficit basis. Everyone pays a part of the cost of providing the service, whether they ever use it or not. Parcel post is thus substantially responsible for the huge losses sustained by the Post Office Department.

There is neither reason nor justice in this. Parcel post is a purely commercial service. It is competitive with private enterprises providing comparable services. It is not a basic Post Office function, as is the carrying of mails, magazines and newspapers—material which contributes to the enlightenment and well-being of the public. Under these circumstances, the least we should demand is that parcel post charges honestly equal the cost of providing the service.

WANTED BY THE FBI

JOSEPH CORBETT, JR.

Corbett, one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives," is wanted for escape from the California Institution for Men, San Quentin, where he was serving a 5-year's life sentence for murdering an Air Force sergeant. A Federal warrant was issued at Los Angeles, Calif., on March 21, 1960, charging him with unlawful interstate flight to avoid confinement for murder.

A white American, born on October 25, 1928, at Seattle, Wash., Corbett is 5 feet 1 inch to 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 160 to 170 pounds. He has light brown hair, blue eyes, fair complexion, a medium build, and has worked as a clerk-typist, laborer, warehouseman, laboratory technician, and alkyd-resin cooker for a paint manufacturer. His upper front teeth slant inward and he wears glasses, reportedly being extremely nearsighted and capable of seeing only close objects. He has a mole on his chin and a C-shaped scar on his right thumb.

Corbett, once a pre-medical student, interested in scientific matters, avidly reads technical and travel books, and is intensely interested in firearms and target practice. He reportedly has a superior general intelligence, is well educated, speaks quietly and neatly, but becomes erratic when drinking alcoholic beverages.

Convicted of second-degree murder, he is considered armed and dangerous.

Anyone having information concerning him should immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which can be found on the first page of local telephone directories. 0-51200-1
